Sixteen Sessions
Wednesdays, September 16, 2015 – April 20, 2016 (8:15 – 9:45 p.m.)
with James Miller, PhD; and Kathleen Miller, PhD

Selected Topics in Psychoanalysis courses will be open to psychoanalytic candidates and to individuals who have completed or are taking our psychotherapy courses or fellowship programs. Other interested mental health professionals may also apply by contacting Dr. Joy Kassett at 202-237-1793 to arrange a brief telephone interview and by providing a letter of reference from a recent supervisor or someone familiar with your current work. Credit earned by non-candidates in these introductory courses may be used towards the Psychoanalytic Training Program, if they are accepted into the program at a later date.

Great papers in modern psychoanalysis reflect both their science of the mind and the application of theory to treatment. Together the material establishes its significance in the development of psychoanalytic theory as well as its importance for practical use. This course will review theories of feminine and masculine sexualities, mind and brain studies, psychoanalysis and culture, primitive mental functions, myth and fantasy, and use of language. A selection of readings includes the work of Bion, Meltzer, Ferro, Mitrani, and Busch.

James Miller, PhD, is a Training and Supervising Analyst at the Baltimore Washington Center for Psychotherapy and Psychoanalysis. He is founder and past director of The George Washington University School of Professional Psychology.

Kathleen Miller, PhD, is a clinical psychologist and psychoanalyst in private practice in Chevy Chase MD. She is a Training and Supervising Analyst at the Baltimore Washington Center and currently serves as Center President.
